"Vermont's vote indicates a great Democratic victory," said former Governor Stone of Missouri, manager of Mr. Bryan's Eastern campaign. "The Democrats have made large gains in the Legislature and have materially reduced the Republican planality in the State. This is very significant in view of the fact that the Republicans flooded the State with campaign literature and speakers of national importance, and speak money freely, while the Democrats have not sent a single speaker of spent a dollar in the State."

"I am much pleased with the returns from Verment," said Richard Croker. "I see there was a loss of 19 per cent in the Republican vote, and a gain in the Democratic wote. If this proportion is kept up all over the country our ticket will be elected. A change of 21,000 votes, properly distributed, would have elected Bryan four years ago. strength is shown in the steady, even, open change of gold Democrats and independent Republicans from McKinley to Bryan, with no sign of a change the other way. The man who moves about the country with his eyes and ears and mind open cannot fall to see that the whole McKinley-Hanna political oligarchy is collapsing and that Mr Bryan has seized upon the heart and imagination of the American people.

To-day's trip with Mr. Bryan in West Virginia developed evidence enough to show the mighty and certain sweep of conservative elements from McKinley the conservative elements from accumer to his opponent. Mr. Bryan's progress has been a continuous revelation of sudden and new political power. Measuring his strength by what I find everywhere now as compared with what I found four years age, it is difficult to see how he can be defeated in November.

There is no sign of a McKinley victory in sight anywhere in this region. The Presi-dent's weakness, his vacillation and treachery to party friends, have probably cost him his office Bryan Speaks of Citizenship. Mr. Bryan doubled upon his tracks to-day, and to-night finds him again enjoying the refreshing breezes of the summit of the Alleghenies. He began the day in the refreshing breezes of the summit of the Alleghenies. He began the day in Jefferson County, the easternmost county of West Virginia, and since leaving the tri-state gathering at Morgan's Grove in that county he has been working constant-ly westward. He made only two speeches during the day, the first at Morgan's Grove near Shepherdstown, and the sec-ond at Keyser. At both places the crowds greeted the national candidate with eanoon, but no meeting was held here. Mr Bryan is the guest of Colonel McGraw, Na-tional Committeeman, who invited a number of gentlemen to meet the presidential candiof gentiemen to meet the presidential candidate at dinner. After the dinner party Mr. Bryan met socially the residents of the vicinity and the guests of the resort.

The Keyser meeting began at 2 o clock and was held on a vacant plot of ground unpretected by shade trees. The speakers occupied a covered stand, but the crowd stood in the open stanshine. Hot and disagreeable as the weather was, all stood pattently through the meeting, applauding vociferously from time to time. General St. Clair introduced Mr. Bryan at Keyser, and in doing so took occasion to pay a high compliment to his worth.

"I am afraid," he began, "that I cannot prove to you that I am as great a man as Colonel St. Clair thinks I am, but whatever I am I owe to the support which I have received from the creat mass of the people who hear without reproach the name of the common people."
Continuing in the same lines, he said:
"They have given to me whatever prominence I have in public life and I am indented to them for all that I hope for in politics. But if I can do nothing else, I can show you how in a free country the people can select from among themselves are who represents their ideas. I can show

I am interested in this question not as a candidate, but as a clitzen. My father was a lawyer, and I practiced law until I became so busy prosecuting the Republican party for grand breeny that I dd not have time to detend people charged with petty larceny.

"But I do not know what my hoy will be, and I have two daighters, and I do not know what my hoy will be, and I have two daighters, and I do not know what my sons-in-law will be. I do not want a Government that is good only for lawyers, I do not want a Government that is good only for those who may be fortunate enough to stand at the head of great corporations. "I want a government that will protect every clizen in the enjoyment of life and liberty and in the pursuit of happiness, and guarantee to every clizen a fair share of the proceeds of his own toli. If I can help to secure such a government, then I will have me fear for my children, nor my children's children. I could be willing then to let them take their chances with their fellows."

it in 1836. Many who did not understand the money trust are able to understand the industrial trust."

In this connection Mr. Bryan made the following reference to traveling men and the effect of the trusts upon them:

"Why, I remember reading during the 1836 campaign how the traveling men went down to Canton, and they took a band, and they marched in precession to the house of the presidential candidate, and he received them and made a speech to them, and told them how important the traveling men were; told them that you could not tell the sentiment of the people better than to inquire of the traveling men. I wonder if it would not be proper for the traveling men who have lost their places since the last election because of the travel to content to the proper of the traveling men who have lost their places since the last election because their places since the last election becaus of the trusts to organize in excursion to g down to the President's home again and in the band play the dead march of Saul?" Inspiring Motive the Dollar.

After denouncing what he termed the tendency toward militarism, Mr. Bryan concluded as follows:

"The colonial policy is not carried on for education or for the support of Christianity, it was undertaken under the mask of benevolence, but the inspiring motive was the almighty dollar, and if we enter upon an imperial policy, it will not be to educate the Filiphoos.

slavery is recognized under the American flag.

"The same treaty that provides that the Stars and Stripes shall float over the Sultan's palace recognizes slavery as an existing institution."

In introducing Mr. Bryan, George R. Wendiling said, in part:
"My Countrymen: The forces that are rallying to the support of the present administration are the forces that were at one time in New England and New York supporting the slave trade because it was profitable. They are the same forces that in England compelled China to buy optum from India because there was money in it.

The men who find their consciences in their prokethooks, their principles in double entry ledgers, and their patriotism in the profits of a high protective tariff are all, openly or secretly, for this administration. They are men who believe not only in an imperial army and an imperial colonial policy, but also believe in the imperialism of wealth.

ien a man devotes his life to making y for the sake of money he is a curse ny community, and when a great politi-nity is controlled by avariclous meney-ers in the interest of moneymaking, party becomes a great menace to the bille. The imperialism that I am most d of is the imperialism of the dollar, has given to our people the right man e right time—a mun, I say, and not God has given to our people the right man at the right time—a man, I say, and not merely a platform. I speak for a large element when I say that I care very little about platforms. As the great preachers of the world have niways been broader than any dogmatic statement of religious faith, so the men who have led our people up to higher nolitical life were men who were greater than any platform.

Politicians can give us platforms. God alone can ralse up and train and give us men. A poet laureste of England once gave voice to the feeling which controls many Americans to-day, when he cried out:

Ah God, for a man with heart, head, hand, Like some of the simple great once gone Forever and ever by.

He is of the people and for the people. He fears no living men, and all the money in Wall street cannot buy him. In 1856 he was fighting the exclusive claims of one kind of money and advocating the equal rights of another kind of money, and I did not agree with him. But to-day, without sacrificing his honest convictions, he has broadened the struggle and is fighting the undue influence of all kinds of money, and I am for him. In the war that he is now waging for this Republic and for the weifare of this people, may the God of our fathers he with william J. Eryan.

No War on Honest Wealth.

"To-day the Republican party has not a policy on any question that it dares to out line before the American people. Already the Republican party has advocated the retirement of the greenbacks. Poll any Republican in this audience over petition Congress to test the greenbacks, and the substitution of bank notes, issued by banks, based on bonds, which do draw interest, and the substitution of bank notes, issued by banks, based on bonds, which do draw interest."

Mr. Bryan continued by defining the attitude of the Democratic party toward wealth. These remarks were brought out by the presence on the platform of Exsenator Henry C. Davis and his brother, Honorable Thomas C. Davis.

"The Democratic party makes no war upon the honest accumulation of wealth," he said, and continued by the declaration that objections to the policies proposed by interest; and the reduced the party were made by predatory wealth, hiding behind honest wealth.

THAT KANSAS CITY HEARING.

Chairman Selbert, Secretary Edwards and State Committeeman Return.

Chairman J. M. Selbert, Secretary J. H. Edwards and State Committeemen Tom liarrett and W. J. Flynn returned yesterday from Kansas City, where the State Executive Committee granted a hearing to the two factions of the Jackson County Democracy. Seven representatives of the Reed faction and an equal number of representatives of the Shannon faction were heard. The Executive Committee left matters as it found them, except that Chairman Selbert unde a statement to the two factions outlining the future course of the State Committee. He said:

"With a view to aiding you to avoid disaster at the polis, I have convened your State Executive Committee to carefully go over the situation and remove, as far as it is in its power, the dangers confronting the local party welfaire. The members of the committee present are unanimous in the epinken that the opposing forces snowly agree upon a ticket which will be acceptable to the Jackson County Democracy. Such action on your part would not only relieve the State Committee of a most delicate and most satisfactory method of removing local party discord.

"If however, there can be no agreement among the local factions, such as will prevent Democratic disaster in November, your State Committee will take such steps as will insure an absolutely importial disposal of these troubles, even though a new primary, under the suspices of the State Committee will take such steps as will insure an absolutely importial disposal of these troubles, even though a new primary, under the suspices of the State Committee, may be accessary. If it shall appear necessary to hold a new primary, which this committee trusts will not be the case, it will be conducted under such rules and regulations as will guarantee absolute fairness to all concerned." and State Committeeman Return.

ROBSON'S SLAYER INDICTED. Requisition to Be Issued for Frank

Peyton at Once. Chief of Police Campbell yesterday re-ceived a telegram from Chief of Police Neion of Sioux City, announcing that Frank H. Peyton, new under arrest in St. Louis, had been indicted by the Woodbury ounty Grand Jury for the murder of John Robson, which occurred December 23,

E. Robson, which occurred December 2, 1829.

A special dispatch to The Republic last night from Sioux City says:

"Frank H. Peyton, who confessed that he and his confederate murdered John E. Robson December 25 last, hus been indicted by the Grand Jury of this county. An indictment was also brought in against Peyton's confederate, whose name is said to be William Maxon. The latter has not been captured, and for that reason action concerning him is kept as secret as possible.

"The prompt indictment means an early trial. Application will be made at ence to Governor Shaw for requisition on the Governor of Missouri for Peyton and within a week or ten days he will be behind the bars here. The Sioux City police will be ready for trial by that time. If the confederate can be found he will have to stand trial also. All Tuesday afternoon the Grand Jury had the case under consideration, and Police Chief Nelon and Captain Richard repeated the confession Peyton had made to them. The story told in detail left little doubt in the minds of the jury that Peyton is the murderer. The search for the revolver with which Peyton said be struck Robson has been abandoned for the present."

JEFFERSON CLUB'S EXCURSION. More Than One Thousand Persons

Enjoyed the Outing. More than 1,000 persons attended the Jefferson Club's excursion on the City of Providence last night, and the crowd was very enthusiastic. Bryan's picture wreathed in the American flag occupied a prominent position on the boat.

There were short addresses by Thomas C. Hennings, who was the chairman of the Committee of Arrangements, Charles Noland, Judge Noonan and Thomas Cannon. Besides there were several boxing bouts on the deck. Charles Haughton acted as the referee and Jumbo Meler was the time-keeper. The first bout was between Charles Cornwell and Jake Bowen, the former winning.
